A Graduate School of the University of London

Dear Gowtham

On behalf of the London Business School Admissions Committee, I am delighted to offer you a place on the London Business School Masters in Management programme [REDACTED]

You should be extremely proud of your offer. We have been rigorous in our selection procedure to ensure the best possible class. Your offer to join London Business School assumes that you will be joining us having successfully completed your Bachelor's degree and your offer is bound by our Terms and Conditions.

Our Masters in Management (MiM) involves students in an outstanding business school experience, in one of the world's most exciting cities. We position our graduates to take up demanding careers in a global economy, selecting those who demonstrate leadership potential and excellence which are absolutely critical to the continued success of the programme. Your offer acknowledges the unique and individual attributes you possess and the great contributions we believe you will make to the Masters in Management class and the School community.

We will be welcoming a very diverse group of talented individuals from all around the world into the class of MiM2024. Handpicked from an extremely competitive applicant pool, you are an integral part of this class.

We are very proud of what we achieve at London Business School and think you will be proud of what you can achieve working with us. Please accept my personal congratulations on your offer. We look forward to welcoming you into the London Business School community.

Yours sincerely,

Alexandra Barnett
